Technology Privilege refers to the unfair advantages and benefits some people receive from technology. This inequality is influenced by society's beliefs and assumptions about the role and impact of technology. This Checklist of Technology Privilege is a tool created to help you reflect on the amount and kind of technology privilege you hold. To use this tool, check the boxes of all the statements that you can identify with. Count them and assess for yourself (or compare with somebody else) what the result means to you. For example, if you hold little technology privilege you might decide to seek empowerment. If you have a lot of Technology Privilege you may decide to undertake positive action and use your technology privilege to empower others.
